I tried restarting packager, reconnecting device, even reinstalling react native and starting new project. Optionally, we can set data to an intent. Android Example - In this example, we will create one Application with two screens or Activities: the first Activity will hold one EditText and one Button. The id of the EditText is editText and the id of the Button is button. MainActivity.kt : Below is the source code for MainActivity.kt : import android.content.Intent import androidx.appcompat.app.AppCompatActivity import android.os.Bundle import android.view.View import android.widget.EditText class MainActivity : AppCompatActivity() { lateinit var editText: EditText override fun onCreate(savedInstanceState: Bundle?) { super.onCreate(savedInstanceState) setContentView(R.layout.activity_main) editText = findViewById(R.id.editText) fun onClicked(view: View) { val i = Intent(this, SecondActivity::class.java).apply { putExtra("Data", editText.text.toString()) startActivity(i) } Here, we have defined one lateinit EditText variable. Inside onCreate, we are initializing the editText variable. onClicked method is called if the user clicks on the button. 3 In this example, we will learn how to pass data from one Activity to another in Android. On button click, it will invoke the method onClicked in MainActivity.kt. A possible solution for this is that you most probably not bundling your application first, perform the following steps and then deploy your app-debug.apk to your device $ cd myproject $ react-native start > /dev/null 2>&1 & $ curl -o - "android/app/src/main/assets/index.android.bundle" (if the folder assets does not exists create it) Then run from project root $> (cd android/ && ./gradlew assembleDebug) install the created apk to you device, from location: android/app/build/outputs/apk/app-debug.apk let me know if that fixes your issue EDIT: You can simply put it to your package.json as a script to automate it, I believe it will be fixed in upcoming releases of react-native and will be executed prior assembling the final APK, hence this won't be needed (I hope as well) put : "scripts": { "build": "(cd android/ && ./gradlew assembleDebug)", "start": "node node_modules/react-native/local-cli/cli.js start", "bundle-android": "react-native bundle --platform android --dev false --entry-file index.android.js --bundle-output android/app/src/main/assets/index.android.bundle --sourcemap-output android/app/src/main/assets/index.android.map --assets-dest android/app/src/main/assets/" }, or as mentioned the curl equivalent, but for most cases the above is more robust Page 2 Trying to create a react-native project on Android 4.4.2 I get this error screen and couldn't find any way to resolve it. It creates one Intent object. The second activity will read the data and show it in a TextView. MainActivity layout : MainActivity.kt is our first activity name and activity_main.xml is its layout file. This method takes data as key-value pairs. We will use Kotlin and Android Studio in this exercise. On 6.0.0 and later versions it works just fine. The key is "Data" and the data is the text that the user has entered in the edit text. We are converting the text to String using the toString method. SecondActivity : The Kotlin file of the SecondActivity is SecondActivity.kt and the layout file is activity_second.xml. On click, we will start the second Activity and pass the string that was entered in the EditText. If you run this program, it will start the MainActivity and you can enter any text in the EditText as like below : If you click on the Button, it will start the SecondActivity and the entered text will be shown : You might also like: For passing data in Android, we need to use objects of class Intent. Below is the layout xml file content : We can get the data from the intent and assign that value to this TextView : import androidx.appcompat.app.AppCompatActivity import android.os.Bundle import android.widget.TextView class SecondActivity : AppCompatActivity() { override fun onCreate(savedInstanceState: Bundle?) { super.onCreate(savedInstanceState) setContentView(R.layout.activity_second) val intentValue = intent.getStringExtra("Data") findViewById(R.id.secondTextView).apply { text = intentValue.toString() } } } getStringExtra gets the string data that was passed with the intent with key "Data". Intent is a messaging object. The user will enter text in the EditText and click on the button. Different methods are available similar to this method like getBooleanExtra, getCharExtra etc. That's it. We are adding data to this intent object using putExtra method.

21-12-2021 · The meta-data tag is required if you support API level 15 and lower -> The Android system now automatically adds the Up button to the app bar. Run the app. Click Apply Changes in the toolbar to run the app. 11-08-2021 · So in this article, we will show you how you can pass data from an Activity to the Fragment. Step by Step Implementation. Step 1: Create a New Project in Android Studio. To create a new project in Android Studio please refer to How to Create/Start a New Project in Android Studio. 23-08-2021 · This led Google to work closely with developers to devise an ecosystem solution: the Android App Bundle, a format specifically designed for publishing. AABs can be used to make apps smaller (apps using AABs on Google Play are 15% smaller on average versus a universal APK), which means faster installs for users and more installs for developers. 27-10-2021 · For example, your implementation of onCreate() might bind data to lists, associate the activity with a ViewModel, and instantiate some class-scope variables. This method receives the parameter savedInstanceState, which is a Bundle object containing the ... 27-10-2021 · If the user is using a device that runs Android 8.0 (API level 26) or higher, and if your app specifies a targetSandboxVersion of 2, then the user's data is transferred automatically to the full version of your app. Otherwise, you must transfer the data manually. To do so, use one of ... 20-10-2015 · I am trying to get JSON data by parsing login url with username and password. I have tried by using below code but I can't get any responses. Please help me.
